

Together with our partner Refinio GmbH, we intend to build a job search platform for students and faculty at FAU. The foundation will be a software platform which implements server capabilities in browsers and mobile apps, and which can emerge a federated data space supporting those who use it without significant data center resource requirements.

We are looking for a student interested in federated dataspace, ideally with javascript coding experience, interested in cooperation with an international team. We offer access to cutting edge technology, good humor, deeply experienced peers, and the chance to build something to show for. The target platform is nodejs.org, but the API is as described at <https://docs.refinio.one>.